

“Together, we are exploring how exchanges can work with investors, regulators and companies to enhance corporate transparency, and ultimately performance, on environmental, social and corporate governance issues.”

Ban Ki-moon, UN Secretary-General
At the New York Stock Exchange, 2013

2016 SSE Global Dialogue

The Global Agenda for Sustainable Development: SDGs, Green Finance, and Beyond

Held once every two years, the SSE flagship Global Dialogue is a unique global gathering designed to bring together market leaders to analyse, promote and foster communication on stock exchanges' sustainability initiatives. Attracting speakers and audience members from around the world, the SSE Global Dialogue has become the main global platform for convening dialogue on sustainable capital markets.

The 2016 Global Dialogue will build on the launch of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals and the outcomes of the United Nations Paris Summit on Climate Change (COP21). These two agreements have led to a new “Global Sustainable Development Agenda,” which is further strengthened by the 2016 G20 China presidency Green Finance Study Group. The 2016 SSE Global Dialogue will provide a platform for stock exchanges to meet with their peers and stakeholders to evaluate the impact of new global sustainable development and green-finance policy agendas on capital markets.

Key questions to be addressed:

- What implications will the new Sustainable Development Goals have on capital markets, and how can stock exchanges, investors and companies contribute to their implementation?
- How can stock exchanges help to achieve effective ESG disclosure and promote transparency with the aim of creating value for listed companies and attracting investors?
- How can stock exchanges effectively foster new types of green finance products such as low carbon indices, and green bonds?

Hosted alongside the PRI in Person, an annual meeting of investors, the dialogue will welcome a high-level roundtable of speakers from stock exchanges, regulators, investors, companies, ministries and international organizations as well as around 150 observers.

Stock exchanges will demonstrate progress, while highlighting challenges and opportunities that can benefit from policy innovation. Market participants share experiences which can assist exchanges and their regulators in their efforts to better incorporate sustainable development into capital markets.
